Abstract	The Eminent Americans Engraving Collection consists of a small group of engravings of eminent American statesmen, more specifically, 19th century lawyers. ## Biographical/Historical

John Livingston was involved in several major business and legal activities in addition to practicing law. He was the editor and publisher of the U.S. Monthly Law Magazine and of Livingston's Law Register from the late 1840s. His third major venture was the publication of a series of biographical encyclopedias, including Biographical Sketches of Eminent American Lawyers, published in ten parts, and Livingston's Portraits and Memoirs of Eminent Americans, a broader series of biographies printed in two or three volumes each.

In his periodicals Livingston provided the name of every lawyer known to him, giving the full postal address which he had acquired through extensive correspondence with lawyers and postmasters throughout the U. S. He seemed to realize that the rise in the national commercial economy, and the growth of businesses with interests in more than one state, was going to require a systematic source of legal services, which his two periodicals provided. The Law Register became a database, assisting lawyers, bankers and merchants in finding lawyers in other jurisdictions. The Monthly Law Magazine was a means by which to provide reports of cases on a national scale to its readers.

The biographies of eminent Americans were designed to enlighten the reader, and to provide life stories after which they might model their ambitions and activities. As a result they were somewhat didactic and repetitive, encouraging the virtues which made good lawyers. Livingston did not write most of them, but solicited memoirs from the subjects themselves. Many were accompanied by "well executed portraits," engraved from daguerreotypes, photographs or paintings, by the leading printers of the day.

Scope and Contents

The Eminent Americans Engraving Collection consists of engravings of eminent 19th c. American statesmen and lawyers. The collection is based on a publication of a series of biographical encyclopedias. Although there were a few engravings that could not be identified, the bulk of the collection is based on John Livingston's Biographical Sketches of Eminent American Lawyers and Livingston's Portraits and Memoirs of Eminent Americans, a broader series of biographies. These volumes consist of lawyers and statesmen known by Livingston, but the biographical accounts were based on actual memoirs of the subjects themselves. Finally, the portraits were engraved from daguerreotypes, photographs or paintings, by the leading printers of the day.

Arrangement

The engraved portraits are arranged in alphabetical order by last name and are housed in 1 box.
